Dedication

The dedication of the 1964 Chimes belongs to a woman whose tangible contributions to education and to Pfeiffer College are inestimable. Perhaps no other member of the faculty has contributed more to the growth of the college community at large. The time and energy which she has given freely both through her own personal efforts as a scholar and on numerous committees has been of decisive benefit to the school.

To the students she is especially known for the exuberance and graciousness of her personality. Her genuine concern for and belief in young people has left its mark on thousands of students in colleges in Kentucky, Ohio, Kansas, and North Carolina whether it be through classroom experience or in her informal personal conferences.

Born in Hardinsburg, Kentucky, she began her teaching career in Union College, Kentucky. She served as a member of the faculty of Ohio Wesleyan University, where she shared in the work of the committee on student guidance and on religious life. In 1946 she became Head of the Department of Mathematics at Kansas Wesleyan University. There she served as chairman of the curriculum study committee. During this period the curriculum of the college was reorganized, and the college became accredited. In 1954 she assumed her present position on the Pfeiffer College faculty, again being assigned to the curriculum committee. She served as secretary of this committee and once more saw a college become accredited.

Her vitality and determination is almost unlimited, and the conviction that a good teacher must always remain a student has led her to continue her studies in higher mathematics. In recent years she has studied with world famous mathematicians under special fellowship and has taken work in the field of curriculum studies at the University of Denver. In addition, she has served as a dedicated churchwoman in many capacities, ranging from a church school teacher to lay preacher. She has held numerous state offices in the Woman's Society of Christian Service and is currently teacher of the adult class at Wesley Chapel Methodist Church.

She brings to the classroom the mind of a fine mathematician and the perception and skill of an able teacher. Her students usually carry away with them part of her love for her subject. When asked why she teaches, she said, "I know of nothing more rewarding than the experience of watching a young person grab hold of an idea and nourish it in his mind until it becomes a reality."

In appreciation for all her efforts on behalf of education and of Pfeiffer College, we proudly dedicate the 1964 Chimes to Miss Georgia M. Haswell.

THE NEW FACES MINGLE WITH THE OLD. PICK UP THE PIECES; MUSTER OR MASK YOUR ENTHUSIASM. THE SCHOOL YEAR BEGINS.

Bright faces. Bright hopes.

The familiar spire rises above the trees and the well-worn paths.

"Did you say that advanced Bridge for third semester seniors is closed?"

"But they promised us we'd have classrooms this year."

It is good to pause and talk in the early afternoon sun.

Zoo students tumble out of the Science building, and the 12 o'clock rush is on.

"Are you sure Stock said the play was on the soccer field?"

"So what if you didn't bring your bathing suit?"

Europe! I was sure he said the battle took place in Asia.

He must have a Monday morning test.

You'd think that Mr. Gibson could chop his own firewood!

Future Mud Bowl stars.

The pilgrimage to the original site of Pfeiffer College was a difficult but rewarding event.

There's a club for everyone at Pfeiffer College.

Term papers, Term papers, Term papers!

"Don't start to yell yet, John! We made the goal."

"All Hail Pfeiffer College, All Hail to thee."

but it's in the wrong cage!"

Who says I'm not feminine?

"I told you the tomato juice would be straight."

"And then when I was in the French Foreign Legion . . ."

"That's fine, but how did you get past the check-out table?"

"And then I saw the veal patties."

Here comes Gates. Turn on the tape!

And where are the Three Billy Goats Gruff?

It must be a misprint. Says here tuition goes down next semester.

My group had 40% fewer cavities.

Don't look now, but there's a dead fly in your glass

The monsoon season, an annual event.

November 22, 1963

"O.K., that does it. You write the term papers this semester."

It's the second door on the right. I'll never make it!

"Honey, did they just yell—Room Check?"

I think that I shall never see . . .

If I flunk out, I can always get a job at the Playboy Club.

Bet I'll make it to the bathroom this time before the House Director rounds the corner.

This time we'll win the water fight!

I just wore basketball.

No, you go ahead without me. I've already got four cuts.

I don't mind Christmas parties, but why do I always end up on the ladder?

Oh! Look at me. Oh! Look at me. Oh! Look at me, I'm dancing."

"I told you the House Mother made it."

Occasional snow brings a fresh, white blanket to cover the winter gray.

"Didn't you get the cookies and milk I left last Christmas?"

From the B.P.R.C.'S—Boy's Panty Raid Committees?

I guess this means the girls are campused.

Wish I had my boots!

THE YEAR PASSES ON. THERE HAVE BEEN GOOD MOMENTS AND BAD. PERHAPS WE DID COME TO UNDERSTAND OURSELVES AND THOSE AROUND US TO A FULLER EXTENT THAN EVER BEFORE. IT IS ALL A PART OF THE PROCESS OF ACQUIRING WISDOM; AND IT IS ALL A PART OF LIVING.

Water tower as seen from water tower.

Where the girls ain't.

Whatever happened to Miss Mac's garden?

Merner Dorm, the next best thing to Rowe's steps.

"Onward Christian sol—sol—sol..."

"Hey, I warn you. Don't try another one of those cookies!"

Hail Pfeiffer College!

All Hail to thee!

The finest College in the land,

The land of the free.

Everlasting friendships found

Will ever remain,

Our loyalty reigns evermore.

All Hail! All Hail!

Hail Pfeiffer College!

All Hail to thee!

The ringing Chimes and Chapel spire

For all they inspire;

Black and gold, our colors

Wave forever on high

And Pfeiffer College Alma Mater,

This section of the Chimes is a portrait of the distinguished men and women who plan the curriculum of the college and supervise the intellectual development of each student. However, the individual photographs of the members of the faculty, administration, and staff do not reveal the special qualities which make them honored and respected by the students. It is through having been in the presence of some of these people that the student gains an appreciation for their contributions to the college.

The two characteristics which all share—whether he be dean, professor, house director, athletic coach, or secretary — is cooperation and devotion. They are always willing to sacrifice their time to help individual students with their academic and personal problems. The faculty, in conjunction with the administration, aids the student in planning the liberal arts curriculum he desires to pursue. With their insight and experience in education, they guide the student in confronting the challenge which has become his when he entered college.

Classes

Each class at Pfeiffer College is a particular entity in itself, made up of characteristics which give it its own personality. In its Freshman year, a class is initiated into college life as it participates in the hectic but exciting orientation. However, after classes begin, the "Frosh Panic" sets in as each new student begins slowly to adjust to his new curriculum. He begins to realize that he has to begin thinking for himself, that the professors are not going to spell the answers out, and that the three-hour-a-week study schedule he followed in high school is no longer sufficient for the purpose. The new student anxiously awaits the campus movies, sock hops, athletic events and Rec bull sessions in which he eagerly attempts to meet new friends.

The day they become Sophomores, they return to school equipped with the typical "Sophomoric attitude" and a new pride in their sophisticated status. They bestow no pity on the "green" Freshmen. They merely repeat the same critical remark day after day: "We never acted that silly, did we?" The Sophomore girls miss the security of Rowe steps and reprimand the boys in their class for participating in the "fall rush." After the Sophomores have been through exams four times, played twenty-thousand hands of bridge, walked to the post office three times a day for two years, and changed majors twice, they are ready to settle down, shed their naivete, and enter their Junior year.

As Juniors, they forget their "Sophomore blues," and begin to take an interest in their courses since they have completed their requirements and are ready to concentrate on their major. The class is smaller and more compact, and the memories of those who have not decided to return for their junior year are very poignant. The year seems to speed by, and near the end, the juniors cannot believe that they are finally to become seniors.

When they return for their fourth year, the seniors realize that they have reached the point of no return. Beginning to regret the swiftness of time, the seniors fearfully await the finality of graduation. The class is more closely knit than ever before as each senior realizes that he will never see some of his classmates again. When June arrives, the members of the class, together for the last time, receive their diplomas with the dignity befitting graduating seniors. Each student glances back at the campus once more before he leaves. He can already visualize the new Freshman students milling around the steps of Rowe, and he wishes, though quite secretly, that he were going to be among them, only this time enhanced by the wisdom he has painfully acquired.

CLASS OFFICERS: Lynn Suydam, Treasurer; Sonja Britt, Secretary; Larry Shelton, Vice-President; Keith Crisco, President.

It is with a certain pride that the senior thinks of his last year in college. It is a year of memories—memories of happiness and of disappointments. The four years of college begin to take on a special meaning as he gazes back on them. As he thinks of his past successes and failures, as he begins to realize more fully than ever the values which he has developed at least in part as a result of the academic, social, and spiritual experience of college living, he approaches the doorway to mature adulthood.

CLASS OFFICERS: Benny Merrell, President; Laurie Semones, Secretary; Diane Cawman, Vice-President; Micky Blume, Treasurer.

By the time a student has finally reached his junior year, he usually is well adjusted to college life. He knows what subject he wants to major in, and he is beginning to think of a possible future vocation. During their junior year, many students receive honors and special recognitions for their past years of service or academic excellence. The Order of the Sundial, the Phi Delta Sigma, the Alpha Psi Omega, and other honoraries induct juniors into their membership.

Sometimes the sophomore wonders exactly what his place in college life is. He is no longer at the bottom of the ranks, but neither has he reached the exalted status of an upperclassman. Nevertheless, he finds his second year in college a challenging and rewarding one. He begins to take a more active part in extra-curricular activities, he becomes more and more concerned with his own role as a campus citizen, and he begins to find that studying is really an important part of his responsibility.

Few experienced students can forget the first hectic weeks of the freshman year. Placement tests, get-acquainted dorm parties, orientation meetings with the deans, movies and talent shows, schedule-preparing all seem overwhelming and even frightening to the new Pfeiffer student. But soon the freshman begins to settle down to a gradual process of adjustment to the novel aspects of college life. He makes friendships in his dorm, and he attempts to budget his time for club meetings, dates, choir practices, ball games, and even some occasional study.

Features

Each student is confronted with an overwhelming challenge when he enters Pfeiffer College in his freshman year. If he is productive, cooperative, and industrious, he has the chance to be recognized in the three traditional elections of the campus. As early as his Junior year, he may be elected to Who's Who Among American Colleges and Universities, and when he becomes a senior, he joins his class in electing six of its members who have been most outstanding. Whether the contribution is a friendly smile, a word for everyone, an outstanding scholastic record, or a prominent athletic career, the honored seniors are rewarded for their pursuits.

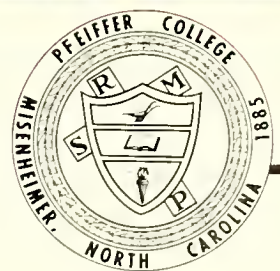

In following elections, George and Martha Washington, Miss Merry Christmas, and the May Court are chosen. The significance of this last event is recognized only on the balmy spring day when, during the colorful May Day festivities, the May Queen and her attendants are formally introduced to the campus.

By election to Alpha Psi Omega, an honorary fraternity of Pfeiffer, the talented drama students are recognized for their achievements, and the students of the highest citizenship are honored in the Order of the Sundial.

In addition to participating in honorary elections, the students pause from their hectic schedule to attend special cultural events. The Fine Arts Festival, a week of concentrated cultural exchange between students, faculty, and distinguished visitors, is held in the spring. Each student has a chance to talk informally with a well-known poet, a comic opera singer, or even a talented musician. However, one week of participation in the fine arts does not satisfy the average Pfeiffer student and to answer his demands, the college provides an extensive series of cultural films. Transported vicariously into a foreign land, the student forgets the tensions of his tedious routine when he visits the auditorium to view a famous Russian movie. He comprehends some of the fiery color that is Spain when he walks to the gymnasium to be entertained by The Iberian Dance Theatre. He laughs at the antics of a French mime and returns to the pageantry of the Elizabethan Age on a Spring evening in the Pfeiffer Playmakers' replica of a Shakespearean theatre.

Thus, when each student graduates from Pfeiffer College and is prepared to embark into life, he will have within him the memories of each of these features. Realizing that it has been worthwhile and rewarding, he will be grateful that he accepted the challenge of college.

Cultural Events and Convocation Speakers

Believing that the college student's life is enriched significantly through the direct experience of programs having a cultural content, Pfeiffer College attempts to provide its students with various cultural activities during the academic year.

Along with the continuance of the Fine Film Series, which has included recent showings of "Richard III" and "The Magnificent Seven," the fall semester brought various other cultural events. Leonard DeLonga, sculptor, gave an informal demonstration of his work to art classes and a formal lecture in convocation. The mime Frans Reynders was presented in a series of short pantomime sketches.

In the musical area, Pfeiffer students had the opportunity of hearing Loren Withers, head of the Piano Department of Duke University, in recital. For its annual Christmas concert, the Pfeiffer College Concert Choir performed Heinrich Schultz's "Christmas Story." Featured in this Christmas program was the Pfeiffer College a cappella choir, the Chamber Singers. This outstanding group performed Christmas carols, ancient and modern, from many lands.

During the spring semester Pfeiffer holds its annual Fine Arts Festival. Featured on last year's program were a performance of "Macbeth," lectures by the North Carolina poet Randall Jarrell, and the Piedmont Recorder Society.

Prize-winning poet, Randall Jarrell, speaks informally to several students after a recitation of some of his works.

"Macbeth", performed in Elizabethan costume in an outdoor theatre in front of Goode Hall, took the campus by storm with its dramatic force and quality of performance.

Managing Editor of the Saturday Review, Richard L. Tobin, pauses to speak with a student following convocation.

Christopher Frye's "A Sleep of Prisoners" was staged in the chapel with a cast of four senior boys. It called for some rough and tumble action, to say the least.

Laura Toledo's Iberian Dance Theatre presented a fiery program of Spanish Dance and excellent music.

Frans Reynders, a world famous mime, give his audience a fleeting hour of pure theatre in his amusing and dramatic pantomime sketches.

Sculptor Leonard DeLonga gave a delightful series of lectures and demonstrations on the art of sculpture and what it is to be an artist.

Loren Withers, head of the Piano Department at Duke University gave an excellent piano recital in the Pfeiffer Chapel which included Mussorgsky's "Pictures at an Exhibition."

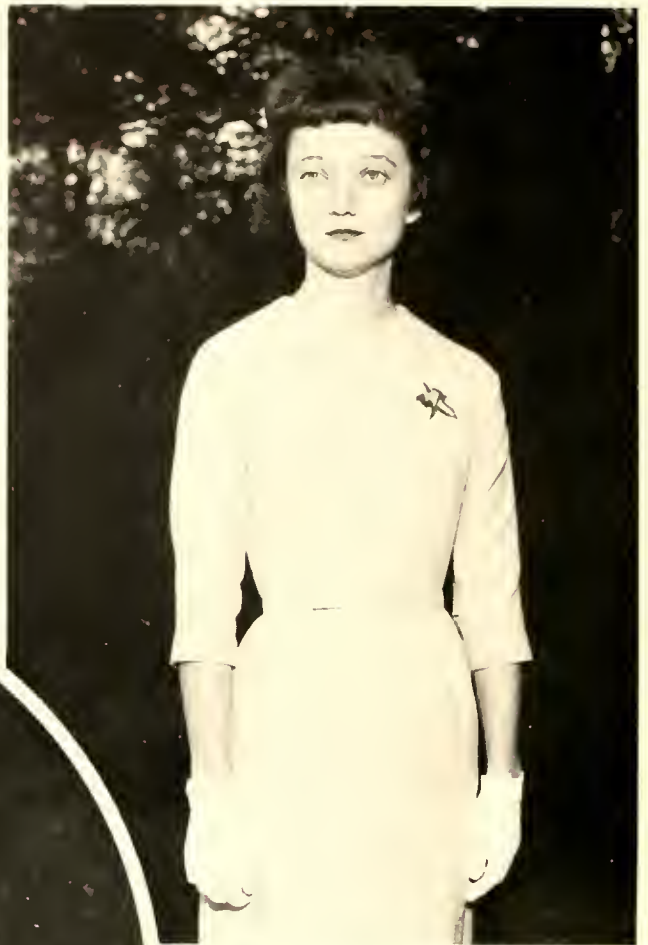

Pfeiffer College Concert Choir presented Schulz's "Christmas Story" at its annual Christmas Concert. The second half of the program was performed by the Chamber Singers who presented a group of ancient and modern Christmas carols.

At a convocation on February 3, Pfeiffer was honored to have former Vice-President of the United States, Richard M. Nixon, as the speaker.

Alpha Psi Omega

Alpha Psi Omega, a member of the Intercollegiate Reciprocal Drama Program, is an honor society consisting of students who have demonstrated outstanding dramatic ability and who have earned a quota of specified points. The students work not only before the lights, but also behind the scenes in the technical phase of production. Participating in conjunction with the Pfeiffer Playmakers Association, they are advised by Mr. Robert Grubbs. Mr. Grubbs and Mr. William Stock are faculty members of Alpha Psi Omega.

Organizations

The organizations of Pfeiffer College were initiated to supplement the academic pursuits and interests of each student who enrolls in the college curriculum. Whether he is concerned with the natural sciences, humanities, physical education, or business endeavors, he realizes that there is at least one organization which will aid him in achieving his particular goals. The affairs of each organization, conducted on an informal level, are designed to develop the qualities of citizenship, leadership, and cooperation within each member.

The student who is interested in government on a local basis is able to express himself in one or more of the divisions of the Student Government Association, and if he be concerned with government on the national level also, he can learn the basic tenets of partisan participation in the Young Democrats Club or the Young Republicans Club. On the other hand, if he develops his ability for literary expression, he can find an outlet for writing as a staff member of the Pfeiffer News, the Chimes, or the Phoenix. The opportunities for self expression and participation are wide and varied.

Being a responsible member of an organization is no easy job. Choir rehearsals, late Monday nights in the News room, one o'clock permissions for play rehearsals, and planning sessions for programs and special events often seem to take up more time than classes. Pfeiffer has its share of "majors in extra-curricular activities."

But organizations seem to teach their members the value of the simple word "time," and they are one of the best avenues to friendships outside of the members' dormitory wings. As each individual prepares himself for the role he will play in life, he recognizes the value of his participation in the different organizations and clubs he affiliates himself with. He gains some of the insights he will require to confront his academic and social problems. Most important, he becomes a storehouse of memorable experiences which will remain with him wherever he may be after he graduates from Pfeiffer.

Student

The Student Government Association of Pfeiffer College naturally exists to promote the interests of the student membership on the campus through channels open to it in the Executive Council, the Senate, the Student-Administrative Judicial Committee, the Women's Student Government Association, and the Men's Student Government Association.

Leading the SGA is the Executive Council. This body is composed of the president, the vice-president, the secretary, and the treasurer of the SGA; the presidents of the MSGA and the WSGA; the dean of men; and the dean of women.

Government

During the 1963-1964 school year the Student Government inaugurated the new Student-Administrative Judicial Committee. Formerly composed of the student Executive Council, the dean of men, the dean of women, the academic dean, and the registrar, the new committee has retained the former administrative representatives and has replaced the Executive Council members with three student judges from the senior class, two from the junior class, and one from the freshman class.

The new student representatives on the committee are selected and appointed by the executive council with the approval of the council's advisors, the dean of women and the dean of men, and of the senate. Student judges for the year 1963-1964 are Ann Stone, Larry Greene, and Bob Magee, seniors; Frankie Darlington and Larry Wheeler, juniors; and Diane Wilhalf, sophomore.

In addition to hearing cases involving Student-Administrative Judicial Committee action, the student members of the committee have the responsibility of interpreting the constitution of the SGA. During the 1963-1964 scholastic year, the judges had the assigned task of drawing up a new SGA constitution for the Student Government's approval.

Composing the Senate are representatives from each class, day student representatives, and the vice-chairmans of the eight men's and women's dormitories. It is from this Senate that legislation originates. In addition to being the legislative branch of the SGA, the Senate has the power to approve or reject all appointments made by the Student Government officers, to approve or reject the annual budget, and to try all impeachments of student government members.

The Senate sponsors several projects during the year. Among those planned for the 1963-1964 year are the Human Relations Conference in the early spring, the adoption of a new college Alma Mater, and the presentation of Ferrante and Teischer and Dave Brubeck in concert. The Senate has also from time to time helped to plan convocation programs, to look into current campus matters such as the planning of a library check-out system, the operation of the college laundry, and the consideration of the possibility of affiliating with a state-wide student government organization. The Senate is also vitally concerned with the problem of communication between the Student Government Association and the student body. It plans several steps to increase the students' knowledge of the workings and programs of the SGA.

Men's Council

The Men's Student Government Association is composed of all men students at Pfeiffer and proposes to create a strength of unity among them. Its function is that of regulating conduct under the authority of the college administration while stimulating a greater sense of responsibility among male students.

At the head of the MSGA is the Men's Council. This council is composed of the president, the vice-president, the secretary, and the treasurer of the MSGA; the presidents of the four men's dormitories; and the advisor, the dean of men. This organization has the cooperation of the administration in the promotion of the best interests of the men students.

Women's Council

The Women's Council of the SGA is made up of the president, the vice-president, the secretary, and the treasurer of the Women's Student Government Association; the presidents of the four women's dormitories; and the advisor, the dean of women.

During the 1963-1964 school year the Women's Council purchased three bicycles for the use of women students. The council plans to increase the number of bikes available each year. Also the Women's Council, in an effort to express appreciation to the maids of the four women's dormitories, gave a Christmas party for the children of the maids.

In addition to these new projects, the council this year voted to continue the traditional practice of an evening of dorm visitation, with refreshments being served in one of the women's dormitories. The Women's Council was also placed in charge of the United Fund Drive in the women's dorms.

Choral Organizations

In the words of Dr. Richard H. Brewer, the chairman of Pfeiffer College's Music Department, "To serve God through music"—this is the ultimate of dedicated choral singers. Each choir member of the many choirs is dedicated to his task of presenting the finest in choral music. With this dedication it is hoped that the listener, our fellow man, will grow closer to God."

Among the many choirs open to the students of Pfeiffer are the Concert Choir, which plans a spring tour of North Carolina; the Chamber Singers, an a cappella choir; the Aldersgate Choir, which performs for Sunday services in the Pfeiffer Chapel; an Upperclassman Chapel Choir and a Freshman Chapel Choir; and Pfeiffer's male chorus, the Pfeiffer Falcons.

The 1964 Chimes

From a dark room in the subterranean reaches of Goode Hall, reverberating with the sounds of dripping water pipes, Judi Kines' typewriter, and the melodious strains of radio station WSPC, the 1964 Chimes came to life. The staff under the dynamic leadership of Mary Ann Shoemaker began work early in the fall semester in order to make the final deadline on the thirtieth of January. In the meanwhile, Business Manager George Lewis and his staff began the laborious task of raising enough money to make the Chimes a reality.

A yearbook is so much more than pictures and words. It is a complicated maze of drawings, studio appointments, proof readings, and flashbulb costs. But out of the confusion, a pattern always emerges. The final products, the Chimes and the memorable experiences of the staff members, are well worth the effort.

The Business Staff, a happy group of money sharks, ponder the problem of wrangling ads out of the area's businesses.

Class editor Gloria Coltharp and her staff seem to be smiling about something; maybe they've found another senior in the sophomore section?

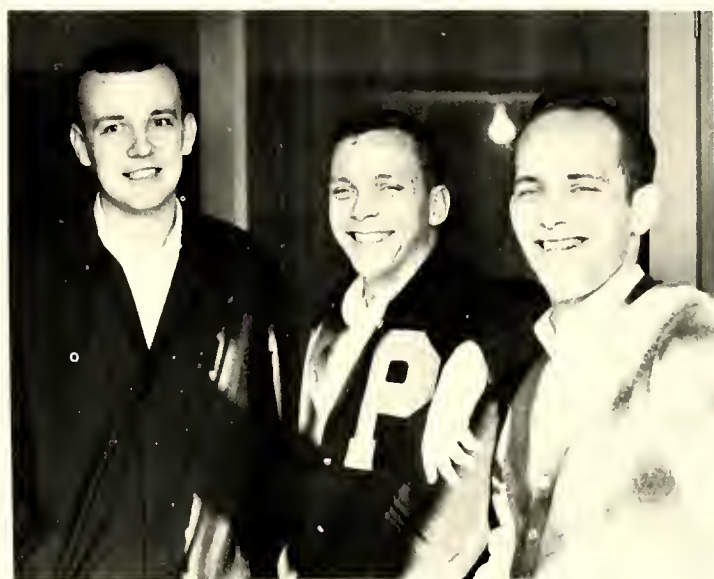

From the steady clatter of typewriters, an anguished cry rose above the din, "Give me back my eraser!"

Literary editor Rhoda Piner and Associate editor Pat Poloff, affectionately known as "Smiley," seem to find the Chimes a laughing matter.

Features editor Jane Lefko and Anne Black look through the Chimes' meager files.

The Sports staff has a difficult job, especially when it comes to getting a vertical picture of Coach Martin.

Smile boys, you're on the other side of the camera now!

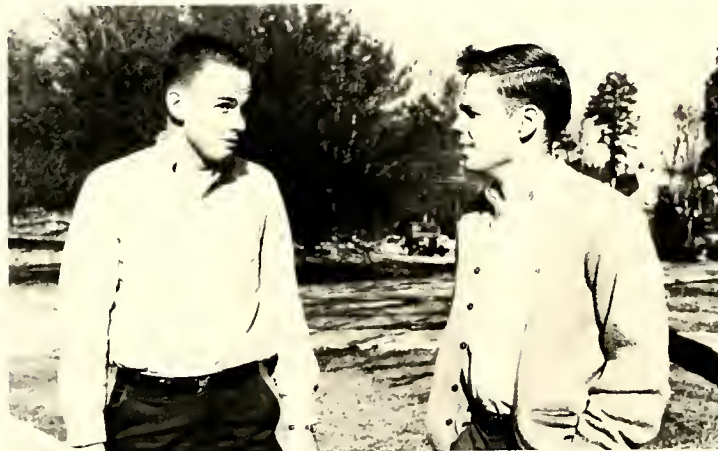

Are you sure there are 700 people in the Young Democrats Club?

Kay Reimler, Editor-in-Chief

Associate Editor Jim Doxsey and Managing Editor Dick McKenzie seem to be puzzled about something. Could it be that they've lost the copy for the front page of the News?

The Pfeiffer News

On Monday nights, the staff of the Pfeiffer News manages to publish its weekly paper amidst Jim Doxsey's cry of "Where's a ruler!" and Editor Kay Reimler's "O.K., who has my stapler?" and guitar pickin' by would be ethnics, and Dick McKenzie's odes, and the periodic entries of columnist Jim Hamilton who mutters something about "inspiration" and "only one more hour and I'll be done."

But in spite of the confusion, the emphasis in the 1964 editions of the Pfeiffer News has been on sound, progressive college journalism. Under the able editorship of Kay Reimler, an attempt has been made to make the Pfeiffer News alive and interesting; to report student opinion as well as to comment on campus and national news.

Special commendation should be given to the staff for an unscheduled edition on the late President Kennedy's assassination.

Advertising Manager John Lefler and Business Manager John Bolen look at "the finished product."

The Phoenix

Pfeiffer's literary and art magazine is the Phoenix, published once a year during the spring semester. The magazine contains poems, art work, short stories, essays, and book reviews.

Any student or instructor at Pfeiffer is eligible to submit work for the consideration of the editorial board. This board, which is made up of students who are not necessarily majors in literary areas, selects the artistic and literary material which appears in the published edition.

In addition to the chief editor and the editorial board, the Phoenix staff consists of a circulation manager, a circulation staff, several typists, and a photographer whose task it is to photograph the art work which appears in the magazine.

Radio Station W.S.P.C.

"What do you mean, Dean Bethea said we can't play 'The Dog'?"

Pfeiffer College's radio station, WSPC, has two primary objectives. They are to provide a medium of information and entertainment to the students of the college and to offer a level of professional training and experience in broadcasting techniques to interested students.

WSPC has grown a great deal during the past year. It has brought new equipment and expanded its record library. Also it has increased broadcasting hours to four hours a night.

The station broadcasts popular and light classical music and has a news program for campus events and area news. WSPC also broadcasts all of the basketball games away from the Pfeiffer campus.

The station is a member of the Intercollegiate Broadcasting System and is affiliated with the Mutual Radio Network.

Playmakers

Jim Hamilton, President

The Pfeiffer Playmakers is organized to promote the dramatic arts, acting, and technical crafts. The organization works very closely with the Department of Speech and Drama in presenting a variety of dramatic performances during the year.

During the fall semester the Playmakers presented a religious drama, "A Sleep of Prisoners," and a British musical, "Salad Days." The organization plans, during the spring season, to concentrate its efforts on the remodeling of the Pfeiffer auditorium to resemble a Shakespearean theater. In this theater it will present a Shakespearean repertory which includes "Richard II" and "Twelfth Night."

Christopher Frye's "A Sleep of Prisoners" was presented this fall by a cast of four. It is a religious drama of life, man, and despair.

Betty Martin is the much appreciated designer for the Playmakers. Without the hours she spends at the drawing board and sewing machine, plays such as "Macbeth" would never see the stage lights.

What's the matter Virginia, beginning to look like a witch? The make-up room was perhaps more difficult to get through than the play itself last spring when the Playmakers presented "Macbeth."

The Socratic Forum

During the 1963-1964 school year, Pfeiffer College witnessed the inauguration of a new extracurricular organization, the Socratic Forum. The purpose of the new organization is the objective discussion of local, national, and international issues which involve the social sciences and the stimulation of interest in and understanding of current issues on the Pfeiffer College campus.

The Socratic Forum is an organization for the mutual improvement of its members in composition and debate. An attempt is also made to enlarge the members' funds of general knowledge. It is through the pursuit of this general knowledge that members learn to exhibit due consideration for the opinions and feelings of others and seek for truth in all exercises of the Socratic Forum. The ultimate aim of the organization is to educate.

Missions Club

The Missions Club has as its purpose the promotion of worship, study, and fellowship in order to acquaint interested students with the missionary endeavor of the church. Because many of the members of the Missions Club are interested in entering missionary fields after graduation, the club presents programs which include study of home and foreign missions and of the vocation of the missionary.

In the past the club has established correspondence with several graduates of Pfeiffer College who are now active on home and foreign fields, aided the Cherokee Mission Center, and participated with Kappa Chi and the Christian Education Fellowship in a joint Christmas project and dinner.

Kappa Chi

Bob Yoder, President

An organization of national affiliation, the Upsilon Chapter of the Kappa Chi is a non-denominational fraternity of all students preparing to enter the pastoral ministry. The chapter is organized for the purpose of providing a medium of instruction and inspiration and for the realization of true Christian fellowship in order that its members may mutually share worship, fellowship, and service based on the ideal of Jesus Christ. The fraternity members also seek to grow in an understanding of their task as it relates to their own contemporary society.

Among Kappa Chi's programs of practical interest and aid to the pre-ministerial student is the attempt to acquaint its members with the work, in all aspects, of a minister and to discuss problems of the vocation.

Christian Education Fellowship

The purposes of the Christian Education Fellowship can best be expressed through the meaning of its emblem. Each point of the diamond represents one aspect of the program of the fellowship. The first is love and the second is service. Next is the point representing preparation and the fourth point is dedication. The circle represents the never-ending circle of fellowship.

The CEF develops its purposes through practical experiences. Some of its projects include visiting the Stanly County Rest Home, sending needed supplies to the Indians at Cherokee, and working with orphanages and mental health problems.

The Fellowship Teams

The Fellowship Teams are organized to assist local church youth fellowships in evaluating their fellowship, study, service, and worship experiences in the light of youth needs and Christian goals of growth. Teams of four or five members respond to invitations of churches to work with the young people and their counselors to consider and to revitalize the churches' programs for youth in a concentrated effort of a week-end.

Fellowship Teams prepare for these experiences through a series of workshops, through regular meetings for learning and sharing, through personal experience, and through personal commitment to Christ.

Canterbury Club

The Episcopal Canterbury Association of Pfeiffer College seeks to understand the Christian students' place in world and campus affairs. It also seeks to help its members understand the life and mission of the church through informal discussions and by the knowledge imparted to the membership through dynamic laymen in the church.

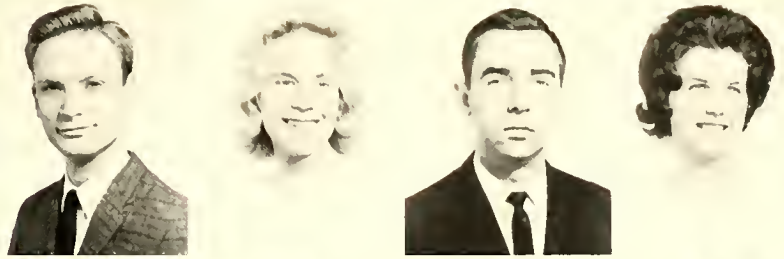

The club exists so that students may keep informed about current church affairs and vital contemporary questions of both a national and a personal nature. Discussions, informal and earnest, perform an indispensable role in the total Canterbury program because through this medium students are privileged to express their own ideas, as well as to share in the ideas of others.

Members of the Canterbury Association take an active part in the religious and social life of Christ Church, Albemarle, North Carolina.

Westminster Fellowship

Bob Yoder, President

The Westminster Fellowship, a student division of the Presbyterian Church, United States, is composed of students and faculty who are associated with churches of the Reformed Tradition. The organization seeks to worship, to provide fellowship, and to study through channels which will aid its members to "serve God and enjoy Him forever." (Larger Catechism)

Through its program and activities the Westminster Fellowship attempts to promote Christian principles and attitudes, to make its members aware of the place of the church in contemporary society, and to acquaint them with the work and spirit of their own denomination.

This year programs have been presented on the nature of ultimate concerns and tolerance and on the Jewish faith. Two nuns from Sacred Heart College gave a program this fall on Catholic belief and what it means to be a nun. This spring the Westminster Fellowship plans a picnic at Morrow Mountain.

The Baptist Student Union is the distinctive denominational ministry of the Baptist Church on all campuses. Its purpose is to conserve and help train Southern Baptist students for effective Christian discipleship.

It functions to remind each student of his responsibility to Christ, to his church, to his denomination, and of his obligation as a Christian citizen to the world in which he lives.

The Baptist Student Union provides inspiration, information, and fellowship which create spiritual climate that Baptists feel is essential for Christian growth while in college.

Methodist Student Movement

Dave Citton, President

The Methodist Student Movement seeks to provide Christian atmosphere on the Pfeiffer campus by sponsoring programs and projects which stimulate the student body to Christian worship, service, and study.

This year the Methodist Student Movement has invited students from Livingstone College, Salisbury, North Carolina, to Pfeiffer in order to discuss human relations. Other programs have included such topics as pacifism and immortality.

As the students returned to campus this year, they began to study early in their quest for better grades. At the same time the Pfeiffer soccer team took the field and began working in preparation for a tough schedule. The season proved to be a hard one for the Pfeiffer "boosters"; yet the fans had many exciting moments during the fall.

During the soccer season, the Falcons' basketball team began to prepare, day after day, for a season that everyone looked forward to with great expectation. Once again the team came through with great honors and has given the fans something to be proud of. This year marked the first time in at least four years that Pfeiffer has beaten Lenoir Rhyne, and this was one of the high spots of the season.

Along with the basketball team, the Pfeiffer wrestling team also highlights the winter sports scene. The grapplers, looking forward to their most productive season in the team's history, managed to do extremely well. Most of the fans had a full night of sports pleasure when both the wrestling and basketball teams came through with victories. After beginning informally several seasons ago, the Pfeiffer fencing team swung into official competitive action this season. This sport has provided many thrills for all and has given the students another athletic activity in which to participate and observe.

As the weather cleared and young men's fancy turned to young women, the sound of baseballs sharply resounding off new bats echoed from the baseball field. Playing the role of defending champion, the team once again proved that Pfeiffer can hold its own in this sport against any team. The baseball team, which has been the pride of the student body, once again gave us the chance to be proud of its hard hitting efforts. While the echo rang out from the baseball diamond, the members of the tennis squad were busy practicing on the new courts near the park. Playing another gruelling schedule, the "netters" provided us with many thrills with their well-balanced veteran team. Representing Pfeiffer on the "links," the golf team "putted" their way through an exciting season. Although golf isn't the largest spectator sport, the team provided many tense moments as its members "chipped one in from thirty feet" or hit the green with a tremendous drive.

Athletics has always been an activity that the Pfeiffer student is proud of, and this year has been no exception. Some of the teams did not fare as well as others; yet every member of every team has given his all, and to those men who have put in so much time in order to bring achievement to the school and thrills to the fans we should like to say — "Thanks!"

Soccer

With a mixture of returning veterans and rookies, the Falcons prepared for one of its toughest schedules. Under the guidance of Coach N. E. Lefko, the Falcons opened their season against N. C. State in hopes of improving last year's 5-5 record.

The season proved to be a tough one for the Pfeiffer boosters and they had to settle for a 4-8 record. However, five of those eight losses were decided by one goal, and each team was a topnotch ball club.

The squad was especially proud that two of its members were selected for the All-South Soccer Team. They were Ross Hagstoz and Danny Smith, while goalie Bob Schuck received honorable mention.

Francis Essic, Coach

The 1963-64 season seems to be promising for the Falcons of Pfeiffer. With Coach Francis Essic at the helm for the fourth year, the rebuilding program of Pfeiffer may be reaching its peak.

With a long line of veterans, the Falcons, after a mediocre start, could jell into one of the contenders in the wide open Carolinas Conference. Led by all-around ability of senior guard, Hal McManus, and rebounding strength of transfer student Danny Carver, the cagers of Pfeiffer will give fans many reasons to cheer for the remainder of the season.

Wrestling

This year Pfeiffer has perhaps the strongest and the most experienced wrestling team in its history. It has great potential, and with Coach Daniels developing this potential, the outlook for a very successful season is excellent. Led by juniors Art Merrion, Gary Mauldin, and Bob Hand; freshmen Dave Crawford, Doug McKenzie, and Christ Cordi; and seniors Boyd Stokes and Jim Jarrett, the team has compiled a respectable 2-2-1 record in one of the toughest collegiate schedules in the South. As the season progresses we may expect to see this excellent young team develop its potentialities into a victorious unit.

Baseball

Pfeiffer opened its 1964 baseball season with hopes of defending the Carolinas Conference crown. Under the leadership of Coach Joe Ferebee, NAIA Coach of the Year in 1962, the Falcons sported the return of such valuable veterans as Randy Ewing, NAIA All-American, 1963; Hal McManus, Carolinas Conference Tournament's Most Valuable Player; Billy Wynne; and Mac Lingerfelt.

After coping the Carolinas Conference crown in 1962, the Falcons lost in the NAIA District 26 playoffs to East Carolina in two very close games. A lot of credit for this great season must be given to such players as Mike DiMucci, Dave Holcomb, Dick Pine, and Ron Pare. Although the birds will be depending on new men in key positions, Coach Ferebee feels that the team will have a great chance of successfully defending their championship.

Randy Ewing

To be an All-American is the dream of every boy. This past year, Randy Ewing's dream came true. He was selected by the N.A.I.A. as the center-fielder on its All-American team.

Randy, a senior Biology major, hails from Maiden, N. C. He hopes to go on to play professional baseball and then teach and coach baseball.

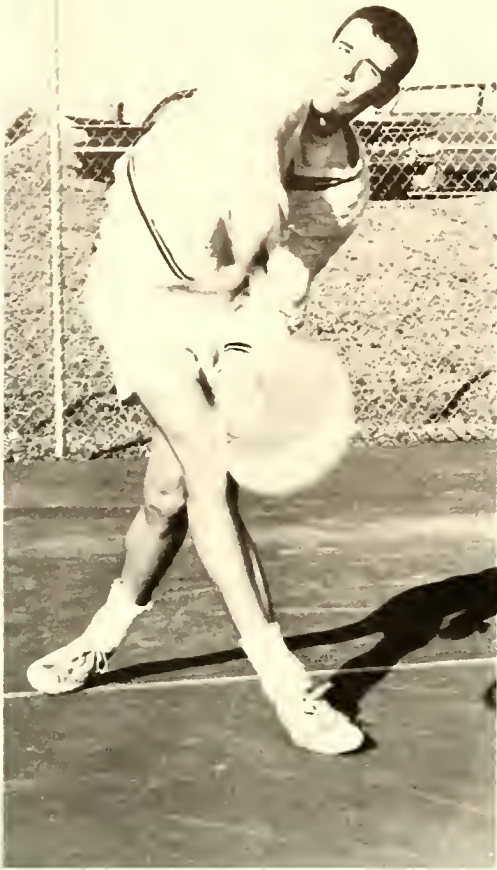

During his first three seasons at Pfeiffer, Randy has batted the phenomenal average of .309, .422, and .415. He has been selected to All-Conference, All-District, and All-State teams in both the '62 and '63 seasons. Last year he led the nation in hits (61), runs (51), doubles (11), and was third in total bases. His 61 hits, according to N.A.I.A. statistics, is a new national record.

Coach Joseph Ferebee, when asked about Randy Ewing, said, "He is undoubtedly the finest player I have ever coached. There is not much I can say about Randy, he writes his story on the baseball field."

Tennis

Looking forward to another successful season, the Pfeiffer tennis team faces one of the toughest schedules in its history. Under the direction of Coach Wallace Martin, the Pfeiffer "netters" will once again be one of the strongest teams in the league.

Warren Knapp comes around to serve one over the net.

Wallace Martin, Coach

This year's team will be very strong even though it lost the services of 1963 seniors Barry Magee and Brown Gardner. Taking over the reins for this year's team will be Warren Knapp, Boyd Stokes, and Paul Loveland.

The Pfeiffer "netters" put in a hard practice in expectation of another winning season.

Cheerleaders

There is no more vital part of Pfeiffer's sports scene than the Falcon's cheerleading squad. Sparked by Head Cheerleader Judy Smith, the cheerleaders have bolstered the spirit of the student body both before and during the games. It was impossible to miss the signs posted on every bench and every door, cheering the Falcons to victory. The cheerleaders also sponsored pep rallies and supplied enthusiastic support at both home and away games.

First Row: Jay Moody, Judy Smith, Doris Goodwin. Second Row: Sarah Freeman, Sonia Kauder, Gincy Scott, Sandy Caldwell, Eileen Dix.

Francis Essie, Coach

Barry Farr, a sophomore from Charlotte, practices a shot he hopes will bring victory to the Falcons in the 1964 Golf Tournament.

Golf

The 1964 golf team should make an excellent showing for Pfeiffer at the conference tournament at Boone this May. The team is assured of the expert marksmanship of Sammy Estridge, Barry Farr, and Bill Hall. Estridge and Farr were our number two and number three men last year. Hall is one of the leading young golfers in the state. The 1963 golf team placed third in the tournament last year with Estridge runner-up to Austen Adams of Appalachian State.

Fencing

From its medieval beginning as a serious method of self-defense, fencing has become a modern sport requiring balance, accuracy, and speed.

The Pfeiffer Talons, organized in 1960, has met in active competition against other schools including the Citadel, VMI, Clemson, UNC, and St. Andrews.

Lance Finnegan, Captain

Intramurals

The intramural program offers recreation and opportunities to the entire student body. Its popular activities include soccer, volley ball, basketball, and such individual sports as golf. The purpose of the program is to develop its participants physically and mentally.
